That left the Millera you understand with five tallies to the soldiers' three

But the army lads went to it just as if it was their game anyway. And it was Erickson hit to left field with two on bases and scored em and made third himself. It was one of the heaviest hits of the season and a game winner at that. The score was tied, and one down. Scamehorn was up. He hit a liner and Erickson cume home, and what those soldier rooters did to the atmosphere was terrible to see—to hear. Three runs in the inning and the game. Then Kemp hit a liner down the alley, and scored another. At this stage of the game the Millers thought something had to be done. They removed Cargo, who was really pitching good enough ball considering

Recruit is Saturday Game. Warnock, a youthful recruit from among the ranks of the 18th infantry, among the ranks of the 18th Infantry, did a few things in Saturday's game, although the taily resulted disgracefully. He pliched for the Bakers sgainst the 22d infantry, and showed remarkable form, good control and enough speed for hushlenguedom. If Warnock hadn't Tried some juvenile underhand pitching towards the last of the game he would have done beiter. Also, his support was bad, in that the catcher, Paimer, also a soldier of the 18th, proved wild with a disastrous peg to second. But Warnock fanted a good many, and did very well, Capt. A. P. Waits, of the 18th, who brought him out, says that the boy has only been pitching three months, in which time he has shown all he knows.

Crippied by the loss of their regular battery, the Bakers had a hard time of it, and towards the end of the game went to pieces in a bad way. But it was good bail up to the fourth inning, very good bail. As usual, the superior training of the army ball players carried off the candy, and to the tune of 12 and 4. In the second inning, Palmer, the soldier catcher for the Bakers broke the bat and landed the pill into the short's mitt; he pegged it to second. Killing a runner, thence to first, and out. It was one of the fastest doubles seen in many weeks. In the third Perkins, for the Millers, got so hit to first, sole second and went to third on a wild peg by the eatcher. Then Walker hit a long one to the right section, close to the line, and guade second on his hands and knees.

Error Brings Two Tailles.

An error by Erickson brought in two taillies for the Bakers in the third, A he gut to second on a drive through eight and Erickson's liver in the sixth brought in two for the army. The solders butted around, and Warnock couldn't stop them. In the seventh Heffner hit to center garden and made third, the first triple of the game. He walked in on a hit by Walker, From

After much wrangling on the subject, Billy Wilson has been selected referee for the fight. Homer objected to others mentioned, and Wilson got in for the chief reason that he is little known here. Nick Oswald, th official referee of the local boxing amociation, will officiate at the Payo-Steele 10 round preliminary. Steele 10 round preliminary.
